LEADER HESS WANTED TO RESIGN Rat Was Induced to Stay on Condition of Fight at This Primary.

A. Hess, Republican leader of the Twenty-fifth Assembly district, called the Assembly District Committee together at its headquarters, Broadway and Twenty-seventh street, last evening, to tell them that he had made up his mind to resign the leadership of the district because of business and family reasons. Mr. Hess told the committee that t had been his desire and intention for some months to retire, and that he thought the time As soon as he had made this declaration to the committee, ex-Alderman Ware made a speech in which he said that Mr. Hess could not be spared from the leadership because of the important work which must be done during the present campaign. Col. Lovell H. Jerome said that Mr. Hess had brought order out of chaos and had established the district firmly in the Republican column. Col. Jerome introduced a resolution requesting Mr. Hess not to resign. Itwas adopted unanimously.

Then Mr. Hess said that he thought that he really ought to resign, and ex-Aiderman Ware moved that a special committee of three be appointed to urge him to reconsider his determination. This committee had a long talk with Mr. Hess, and he finally consented to remain as leader until the expiration of his term in December. In doing this Mr. Hess said that the one condition on which he consented to retain the leadership was that there should be congit at the primary between the two factions in the district, and that the Republicans of the Twenty-fifth should dwell together in harmony, at least until after the elections are over this fall. speech in which he said that Mr. Hess could

Chicago Man Decides Not to Become Assistant Postmaster-General.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.-Frank C. Lowden does not want the office of First Assistant Postmar General. The place was offered to him through Charles G. Dawes yesterday, and the Comp troller of the Currency used all of his powers of persuasion to make Mr. Lowden accept. The Chicago man, however, was firm, according to reports. In an interview Mr. Lowden said:

I am not and cannot be a candidate for that or any other office. I appreciate fully the dignity of the office and the compliment of being talked of in connection with it, but it is a place where if the incumbent did his duty, he would have to spend his whole time at the work, and I have now all the work that I can attend to. Besides as I said before. I am not a candidate for any

PROHIBITIONISTS' CAMPAIGN. They'll Run a Train From Ocean to Ocean and Make a Vigorous Fight.

The Prohibitionists of New York held a meet ing last evening at 3 West Eighteenth street and raised $400 with which to pay the bills incurred at the meeting held in Carnegie Hall recently, at which the Hon. Henry B. Metcalf of Providence was notified of his nomination for the Vice-Presidency. The Prohibitionists decided to make a thorough canvass of the United States during the coming campaign To do this they are going to charter a special train, which will travel from ocean to ocean during October. The train will be decorated with the national colors and it will leave Chicago east over the Northern route about Oct. 1. John J. Woolley, the nominee for President, and Mr. Metcalf will be aboard the train all the time, and as it passes from State to State the nominees for local offices will be taken up.

It will come from Chicago to this city, where five or six meetings will be held. Then it will start west over start west over a southern route and go through to San Francisco. From San Francisco it will return to Chicago over a northern route. The Silver Lake quartet will be aboard all the time and will sing prohibition songs. The train will stop at every town in which a guarantee fund of sion is raised. The Prohibitionits have no doubt that a great deal of good will be done for their cause by this method of campaigning.

CUBAN FUNERALS.

They May Be Very Gorgeous Functions, bu They Do Not Try the Nerves.

The man who had been sojourning in Cuba had been criticising things Cuban with the customary tantalizing Angle-Saxon superiority for more than an hour. The Cubans were a bad lot altogether. They didn't do anything the way it should be done, because they didn't do it the way it's done in the United States. Furthermore, they didn't talk English, and this in itself was more or less of a crime.

"They wont do at all," he went on to his listners, "except when it comes to funerals. On that proposition they've got us beat to death, so to speak. On sight their funerals are foolish, but when you come to examine into their modus operandi they succeed in accomplishing their bject with much less flubdub than we do.

"The principal reason for this is that they rob the funerals of all dramatic effects. Why, I can't go to a funeral in this country even if it's that of a man I hate without blubbering. It don't make any difference whether I've ever heard of the unfortunate deceased or not; the minute I get around to a funeral I'm speechless. If I open my mouth to say a word my eyes spill tears all over the floor. There's so much sad music and solemn oratory, awe-inspiring prayers and beautiful vocal solos with a whole lot of weeping, semi-hysterical women around you that your nerves give out, and you get

AUDIENCE NOT ALL ANTI-IMPERIALISTS Meeting in Fancuil Hall Didn't Turn Out Entirely as Was Expected.

Boston, Aug. 7 .- The audience at the antiimperialist meeting in Faneuil Hall this noon was comprised mainly of marketmen who attended chiefly for the reason that it gave them some divertisement during the dinner hour. R. E. Hersom, a business man in the market district, arranged for the meeting, and in his call announced that it was for "all those who were not opposed to McKinley in 1896 but who are now opposed to his methods and policy. Ex-Gov. Boutwell, Gamaliel Bradford, Erving Winslow and a few others in sypamthy with anti-imperialistic principles occupied sets on the platform. Mr. Boutwell was the leading speaker. Hersom, in his opening remarks, said that the meeting was intended a a send-off to the men who are soon to depart for the "Liberty Congress" at Indianapolis for the "Liberty Congress" at Indianapolis, but he failed to arouse any enthusiasm in the audience. When Mr. Boutwell was introduced the band which had remained silent in the baloony up to that time, struck up a patriotic air, but one could not quite distinguish whether the intense applause was for the music or for Mr. Boutwell.

Several of the speaker's points were applauded, but when he reached the question, "Is President McKinley worthy of confidence and support?" It became apparent that not all of the audience was in sympathy with the anti-imperialist crusade. "No, no," came in reply from various parts of the hall, quickly met with cries of "Yes, yes."

Mr. Boutwell's address arraigned the Administration and attacked Senator Hoar as one of those men "who condemn the President's policy for reasons which mennee the existence of the republic, and who are yet urged to support the President in the coming election."

Mr. Boutwell acknowledged that Mr. Bryan

Mr. Boutwell acknowledged that Mr. Bryan
had bad financial theories which the AntiImperialists condemned and said that the silver chief probably would be a disturber of business until his inability to reverse the financial policy of the country had been demonstrated.

Mr. Bradford advised his hearers to vote for Bryan. Resolutions were adopted holding the Administration responsible for the "unconstitutional development of a system which threatens the existence of the republic."

NEGRO QUESTION WONT DOWN Protest in North Carolina Against Democratic Attempts to Keep It Alive.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 7.-An effort is being made to inject the negro question into the national campaign in this State by reason of the fact that President McKinley has appointed several negro Postmasters in eastern North Carolina. This effort comes from the pronounced Bryan organs. To-day J. William Bailey, the editor of the Biblical Recorder, the organ of the Baptist denomination in North Carolina, and the most influential paper in the State, wrote letters to Democratic State Chairman Simmons and to Charles E. Atpock, Democratic Governor-elect, notifying them that if such a campaign is waged he would cast his vote for McKinley as a protest Mr. Beiley recited the fact that he had had the promise that the negro question should terminate in this State with the adoption of the constitutional amendment and that he gave the measure his support under these conditions. several negro Postmasters in eastern North these conditions.

Chairman Simmons replied, saying that he intended to conduct the campaign on the issues of the day. Many Democrats in North Carolina who voted for the amendment are expanlina who voted for the amendment are expansionists and sound money men and will vote for McKinley. They are protesting against the attempt to bring out the negro issue. It is an open secret that a large number of Democrats in the State only want an excuse to vote for McKinley and Editor Bailey's action may furnish it. The Baptists outnumber any denomination in the State and Bailey's paper has great indiagence with them.

ODELL POSITIVELY OUT.

PARTY LOOKING FOR ANOTHER CAN-DIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

Field Declared to Be Open and Now Watch Out for Booms-Mr. Odell Almost Tempted to Run by the Character of the Attacks en Him-Platt Wont Urge Him Further. Senator Platt and Chairman Odell of the Republican State Committee had a long talk on Monday evening on the plazza of the Oriental Hotel, Coney Island, about the candidate for Governor. Senator Platt, recognizing the almost unanimous desire of the Republican campaigners of the State, has been anxious that Mr. Odell should consent to become the party nominee. At the meeting of the county chairmen at the Fifth Avenue Hotel three weeks ago the sentiment in favor of Odell's nomination appeared to be so strong that it seemed as though no man would be able to weeks ago the sentiment in favor of Odell's nomination appeared to be so strong that it seemed as though no man would be able to withstand it. But Mr. Odell from the first has declared that he was not a candidate for the nomination and that he did not want it. In his talk with Senator Platt on Monday evening he repeated this and told Senator Platt as ome other man must be found to head the State ticket. Senator Platt, finding that Mr. Odell could not be invoved from his determination, was compelled finally to consent not to urgo him further.

Senator Platt, it was said yesterday, was vory much disappointed. From the first he has believed that if Mr. Odell were nominated he would be elected by a rousing majority. Mr. Odell is very popular, not only with organization men, but he has the friendship and good will of many independents, conspicuous among whom is ex-Mayor William L. Strong of this city. The only opposition to his nomination, and it was very slight, has proceeded from a certain clique of the same stripe as those who opposed the election of Roosevelt in 1998 because he refused to accept an independent nomination. This opposition has in no way influenced Mr. Odell in his decision, He has simply adhered to his first purpose declared when his nomination was originally urged. He knows that the party would be glad to have him at the head of the State ticket, and about the only thing which caused him to waver in his determination not to be a candidate was the character of the opposition. He was not pleased at the cry that he was an organization man and therefore could not be a good man. He believes that the men in the organization are at least as good as those who are outside of it.

Neither Senator Platt nor Mr. Odell would make any statement yesterday. Mr. Odell's friends, however, including Senator Platt, have agreed to look around for another man to head the State ticket. No man has been a candidate, and would not be a candidate of the Ruprise of the Assembly Congressman James S. Bherman, ex-Comptroller J

MR. DAWES AGAIN AT CANTON. The Comptroller of the Currency in Conference With the President.

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 7 .- Comptroller of the Currency Charles G. Dawes was again with President McKinley to-day. He reached the city from Cleveland about 10 o'clock this morning and returned to that city about 4 o'clock this afternoon on his way back to Washington. What brought him here is not known, but as he came from the Chicago headquarters the visit is supposed to be connected with campaign work. He accompanied the President from Washington last Saturday and from here went to Chicago.

The Colored Jubilee Singers entertained the President and Mrs. McKinley this afternoon. They are from the Claffin University for Colored Boys, of South Carolina, making a concert tour under the direction of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Duncan of the institution. The party was taken to the McKinley home by the Rev. Dr. Manchester. They were received in the parlor and sang a number of selections. One of them also gave special readings.

Of the many callers at the house to-day only Mr. Dawes was well known, and most of them were greeted on the porch, having called either to pay their respects or on some small matter of personal business.

The weather was very hot to-day, as hot as of personal business.

The weather was very hot to-day, as hot as on any day since the Canton vacation began, but this did not deter the President and Secretary Cortelyou from steady work at their desks. They stopped only long enough for two short drives and were still at work long after dark.

WONT SPEAK THIS MONTH. Gov. Roosevelt Says His Physician Advised

Against It. OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 7.—One of Gov. Rooseveit's visitors to-day was State Committeeman I. V. Baker of Washington county. He is making arrangements for a reunion of veterans of the Civil War which will take place at Comstock, N. Y., on Aug. 15. Committeeman Baker was desirous of securing Gov. Roosevelt as a speaker for the occasion. The Governor told Mr. Baker that his physician, considering that he was to speak all over the country during the two months previous to election, advised him not to do any speilbinding this month. Mr. Baker said that the residents of the section where the reunion is to be held and the veterans would turn out in multitudes to hear the Vice-Presidential nominee speak. The Governor said that he appreciated the spirit in which the request was made, but that he had to decline.

WOODRUFF WOULDN'T TALK.

Lieutenant-Governor Pays a Flying Visit to Brooklyn.

Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff came down yesterday from his camp in the Adirondacks and spent several hours in Brooklyn, dining with Chairman Walter B. Atterbury of the Republican man Walter B. Atterbury of the Republican General Committee in the Clarendon and consulting with some of the district leaders. Beyond assuring Magistrate Henry Bristow that he would support nim in his candidacy for the Congress nomination in the Third district, Mr. Woodruff declined to make any statement in regard to the political situation in Brooklyn and especially in regard to his attitude toward the Hon. Jacob Worth in his Congress aspirations. It was said that Mr. Woodruff had arranged to meet Senator Platt at the Oriental Hotel.

Keahonites Hear Nothing From Boyle. The committee appointed to investigate the financial affairs of the Tammany Hall General Committee of the Seventh Assembly district Committee of the Seventh Assembly district under the leadership of East River Bridge Commissioner James W. Boyle met last night at the headquarters of Mr. Boyle's rival, ex-Alderman Patrick H. Keahon, 128 Eighth avenue. Nobody showed up to explain how the committee's money had been spent. The committee decided to make a report denouncing Mr. Boyle and his methods, which will be read at a mass meeting to be held to-morrow evening at Hudson and Christopher streets.

DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE.

Gnests at a Long Branch Cottage Didn't Have Time to Dress.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 7.-Fire started in the Garfield avenue bakery of Mrs. F. Kaufman at 1 o'clock this morning and for several minutes the whole row of cottages was threatened with destruction. The building was entirely destroyed. The adjoining house was also damaged. It is occupied by H. H. Long of 308 West Ninety-third street, New York. The Long family lost clothing, watches, jewelry and linen. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clary. Miss Whitney and Miss Phillips, guests at the cottage, escaped half-dressed and spent the rest of the night with neighbors.

Ironworker's Body Found in the Bay. Michael Elwood of Rosebank, Staten Island. discovered the body of a man in the bay off Clifton yesterday morning. The body was towed ashore. In the afternoon, Mrs. Isabelle Schweiger of Bay street, Clifton, identified the body as that of her husband, Louis C. Schweiger, 46 years old, an ironworker. She said he left home Saturday afternoon to go to Manhattan with the intention of collecting some money, and that she had not seen him since.

MRS. BRESCI'S FAMILY. She Is Not the Daughter of a Confederate

Colonel, She Declares. The story came from Shelbyville, Tenn. yesterday that Mrs. Bresci, wife of King Humbert's assassin, was really Sophie Niel, the daughter of Col. James Niel of Shelbyville, who was in the Confederate Army. It was said that while teaching school in Bedford county, Tenn., she eloped with a married man named Thomas Owens, and that they finally drifted to New York. Owens left the woman here, the story went on, and returned to his wife in Tennessee. The last heard of Miss Niel she was working in a silk mill in Paterson.

Mrs. Bresci was asked yesterday if she was the daughter of Col. Niel. She replied that she was not and then repeated her story, already published in THE SUN, relative to her parentage. Her maiden name, she said, was Sophie Kneiland. Her father's name was Matthew, She was born in Chicago and during her girlhood her family lived in Eigin, one of the Chicago her family lived in Eigin, one of the Chicago suburbs. Her parents are both dead and so are all her relatives, so far as she knows.

Frank Quazza of 100 Vine street, Paterson, is wondering whether the girl under arrest in Italy who gives her name as Mara Cazze is his daughter. His daughter's name is Emma Quazza, but the thing that connects her in her father's mind with Bresci is that she wrote to him from Paris that she had met Bresci on the steamer and travelled with him to Paris. Emma is 19 years old and lived with her father in this city. She worked in the Paragon Silk Mill where Ernestina Cravello was also employed. Miss Cravello says she does not remember Emma by name.

Mill where Ernestina Cravello was also employed. Miss Cravello says she does not remember Emma by name.

Emma went to Italy with her uncle Frederico Piani, his wife and daughter Carmeline of West Hoboken. Emma's mother lives in Mosso, Italy, and the trip was made to visit her. She spent a week in Paris at the Exposition, while her uncle and his family went straight through to Italy. She met Bresci on the steamer three days after leaving New York and thus struck up an acquaintance. He accompanied her to Paris and found her a boarding house there. Then he left her, presumably to go to Italy. Emma wrote two letters from Mosso, Italy, and the last one, dated July 24, was received here last night. Neither of these letters said a word about Bresci. The girl was not an Anarchist and was not known to the members of the Right of Existence Group.

IN MEMORY OF HUMBERT.

Brooklyn Italians Hold Memorial Services -Ten Societies Represented.

A solemn requiem mass in memory of King Humbert was celebrated yesterday morning in the Italian Church of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary in President, near Columbia street, Brooklyn, and the Italian colony of South Brooklyn was largely represented. Delegations from ten Italian societies. most of them in uniform, had seats in front of the altar. The church was draped with mourning emblema, A shield with the crossed flags of the United States and Italy was placed on the top of the catafalque, which was draped in black and ornamented with gilt bands of fringe.

The Rev. Humbert Roechi was celebrant of the mass, the Rev. Gluseppe Anduff, deacon; the Rev. Vincenzo Sonato, sub-deacon; the Rev. Father Marino, director of the choir, and the Rev. Assunto Feitger, master of ceremonies. Several of the priests were within the chancel. The eulogy was delivered by the Rev. Father Castelano, one of the assistants at the church. At one side of the yard of the church a large American flag was suspended, on the opposite side an Italian flag, and over the doorway there was drapery of black and silver, and the announcement in Italian and English that a tribute of tears and prayers was unnaimously paid by Italians to the memory of King Humbert. that he had made for Democratic representation at the big labor picnic which is to be held to-day at Lagoon Island, between Troy and Albany.

All the labor organizations of those two cities are to hold an outing there, and Goy. Atkinson of West Virginia is to make a speech. When Mr. McGuire heard that Gov. Atkinson was to make a speech he immediately obtained a permit for the erection of a stand close to that from which the Virginian is to address the meeting, and induced ex-Goy. Stone of Missouri to accept an invitation to speak at the same time. Mr. McGuire expects that whatever effect Gov. Atkinson's speech may have will be overcome by the address of ex-Gov. Stone.

It is expected that ex-Gov. Stone will represent Chairman Jones of the Democratic National Committee in this end of the country during the fall, as he was appointed a member of the Executive Committee by Chairman Jones on Monday, while the Hon. Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, was put upon the Press Committee only, it was said at Democratic Headquarters yesterday that Chairman Jones apparently wished to have Mr. Stone in command. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 7.-The Silver Republican and Populist State Central committees held a meeting here to-night to consider the attitude of the Democratic manager toward them and to consider means for entering upon the active work of the campaign regardless of the plain intention of the Democratic committee to ignore their offers of service. As soon as the two bodies met a subcommittee from each was appointed to consider the matter and report at once to the joint meeting. The sub-committee was in session for an hour and then submitted a report, but the members refused to make any statement as to the determination that had been reached. When the meeting adjourned at 9:30 o'clock two members went to the hotel to confer with Messrs. Brran and Stevenson, and when asked if they had been appointed to confer with the candidates they refused to answer. It became known a few moments later that the members of the committee were indignant over the action of Chairman Martin in refusing to assign to their leaders a place in the work of the campaign and that the object of the call upon the candidates was to enter a formal protest and seek to have the attitude of the Democrate toward the two committees changed. toward the two committees changed

SAY THEY DO NOT FEAR GLEASON. Regulars Declare His Following Consists His Office Boy and Stableman.

There is no inclination among the regular Democrats of the borough of Queens to hold out the clive branch to former Mayor Patrick J. Gleason, who has announced that he intends J. Gleason, who has announced that he intends to run an independent ticket at the primaries this fall. It is the intention of the regulars to ignore Mr. Gleason. They say he has no following except his office boy and stableman and that all his efforts to form a combination of any sort will prove futile. Owing to the prolonged absence of the borough leader, John P. Madden, who was compelled to go West for his health, a feeling of uncertainty prevails in the Democratic ranks. More than a dozen candidates for the leadership have sprung up within the past few months. past few months.

GIRLS FORM A UNION.

Three Thousand Shirt-Waist Makers Decide to Organize. Three thousand girls and a few men crowded nto Lichtenberg's Assembly Rooms at 77 Essex street last night and overflowed into the street to join the newly organized Shirt-

Waist Makers' Union which has been started by the successful strikers in Floersheimer & Roman's factory. The strikers were all there and urged the girls from the other factories to join by telling them how easy it was to win a strike. Louis Freedman, the President of the new union, earned black looks from some of the girls by advising them to give up all hope of getting married. "Only a few of you can get husbands," he said, "and if the husbands lose husbands," he said, "and if the husbands lose their jobs you will have to come back to work, Better Join the union and help raise wages." About 2,500 joined the union and elected Freedman President. S. Lichten was elected Vice-President and the Misses Gurion, Bergmen and Rosenberg, Secretaries. H. Blum was elected Treasurer. At a future meeting delegates to the United Hebrew Trades and Central Federated Union will be chosen. A JERSEY CENTRAL CONFERENCE. Conductors and Superintendent Talk About

BROADWAY & 25TH ST., N. Y.

Special Cable Despatch to TRIB SUR BERLEN, Aug. 7.—Wilhelm Philipp Martin Liebknecht, a member of the Reinhster, died at Charlottenberg last night. He was one o the foremost Socialists in Germany and was the editor of the Socialist newspaper Porwarts.

Herr Liebknecht was born in Gieseum in 1826. He showed socialistic tendencies at an early age. He studied at Gieseen, Berlin and Marburg. He was charged with participation in the revoit in Baden in 1848 and for this was imprisoned for nine months. He also took part in the revoit of 1849. He had adopted the profession of letters and thought that Switzerland was better adapted to the life he meant to lead. He got into trouble with the Swiss authorities for teaching socialistic principles to the trades unions and was taken to the border and handed over to the French police, who hustled him aboard a ship for England. There he was associated with Marx, Engles and other leading Socialists. He was a member of the international body. He lived in England twelve years, doing some journalistic work. Under the amnesty proclamation of 1862 he went back to the futherland and wrote for the Norddenische Allgemeins Zeitung, When the paper became the organ of Bismarck Liebknecht had to leave it. He was mixed up with the labor agitation of 1862 and was again banished from Berlin and Prussia. He was elected a member of the Partiament of North Germany in 1867 and was editor of the Demokratischee Wechenbedt. He attacked the Bismarck Government in this journal with great vigor. He denounced the war with France and the annexation of the French provinces. He was tried for high treason in 1872 and spent two more years in prison. While he was still in prison he was elected to the Reichstag, and took his seat when he was released. Dr. Liebknecht has been residenced regularly ever since. He visited this country seweral years

BARNEY O'NEIL DEAD.

Well-Known Man in Tammany Services to Croker.

Bernard O'Neil, better known in Tammany circles as "Barney," died on Monday at his home, 518 Third avenue, after an illness of six weeks. O'Neil was frequently referred to in political circles as the man who gave Richard Croker his first start in politics. He was born in Ireland 70 years ago and came to this country in 1841. He began work here as a bricklayer and in 1858 he had saved enough to open a saloon at Twenty-eighth street and Second avenue, which he called the "Uptown Hall." In later days this became the resort of Richard Croker, John Kelly and other men high in Tammany circles. In 1869 O'Neil was elected an Alderman. In 1870 he was reslected, but the following year he refused a third term. In 1883 he was appointed a court officer in the Surrogate's Court, which post he held up to his death. In 1884, after Richard Croker had been acquitted of the Grogan murder, he was nominated for Alderman of the Twenty-first district on a suggestion from O'Neil, who said that Croker's election would be a vindication for him. On the same ticket O'Neil's son—Blaw, John J. Cullen, was running for the Assembly. By hard work Cullen and O'Neil managed to pull Croker through with the rest of the ticket. Since that time Mr. Croker has been a warm friend of O'Neil.

Word was sent to him at Saratoga of O'Neil's death, and it is expected that he will be present at the funeral services to-day in St. Stephen's Church. Other well-known politicians will also attend the funeral. O'Neil leaves a widow and four daughters and one son. he refused a third term. In 1883 he was ap-
